Tablecloth Pressed

August 2017

Can it really be Mid- August already? I remember my Mom telling me that time passes much more quickly as you get older and, of course, like every other kid I didn't believe her but now I know it's true - WAY too true.

As Summer draws to an end, I want to remind everyone to make sure you enter our "It's My Party" 15th Birthday / Anniversary Table Setting Contest - deadline is August 21st! Check here for details about Entering VTLC Contests.

We still have a few other tricks up our sleeves for our Quinceanera (15th Birthday) but probably will not host the traditional celebration which is often a lavish party that may include a mariachi band, a feast and many guests—much like a wedding. We're coming close though.

Did You Know?

- The word quinceañera is derived from the Spanish words quince for 15 and años for years.
- The quinceañera is one of the few universal Latin American occasions, celebrated from Mexico to Argentina.
- Although the tradition is evolving with U.S. Latinas, quinceañeras remain very common among second- and third-generation Hispanic girls.

Again, a BIG thank you to all who have helped us celebrate throughout the summer and I guess I can safely say, "See You in September".

Jimmie

Tips, Tricks and Tidbits for the Forum and Database

Forum:

See the latest posts at a glance in all forum categories!

When you enter the forums, you typically come in on the category page and then click through to the forum of your choice. It can be a little cumbersome and time consuming going back and forth between the forum categories to check for new posts in each one.

Instead, do this: at the top of the Categories page is a series of tabs. Click on the fourth one, "Latest Topics." Voila! It will bring up a page listing the topics in any and all categories that have the most recent activity. You can then click through to read the topic of your choice and use the back button to go back to the listing of new topics and read others that interest you.

Database:

Wondering which tablecloths you can enter into the database?

Read here for an FAQ explaining what kind of information is needed to submit a cloth to the VTLC database.
